Mid-Summer Festival

The Summer Festival is fated getting in funds for the children with sensory affections from Romania.

Lh this summer, "Light into Europe" organized a charitable action getting in funds for the romanian children who suffered by sensory shortcomings.

This event was sustained by important multinational companies. Stan Platt, the President of "Light into Europe" said: "We are glad that the Intercontinental Hotel organized this charitable event in the benefit of the children with sensory affections.

Through our services and our activities, we support children and teenagers that are marginalized and vulnerable in Romania. We know that our achievement depends very much on the generosity and the understanding of our partnerships and we are very thankful to our sponsors: Orange Romania, Intercontinental, Metro, Coca-Cola, HBC, Ursus, Halewoods."

Light into Europe, the hostess of Mid-Summer Festival, emphasized the support accorded to this charitable project that is unfolding, in the position of the children with sensory affections and of the romanian children.

The guests shared traditions and customs attached by the celebration of the summer solstice. They enjoyed the live music and the exceptional food, everything in scandinavian style.

The guest on honour of the event was the ambassador of Great Britain in Bucharest, Mr. Robin Barnett, who desired to distinguish the function that community had in the life of the persons with shortcomings.

The funds that were collected with this occasion were used for the second edition of the Summer School from Dorna(Suceava) where a number of 100 normal children and with sensory shortcomings, with teachers and parents enjoyed 10 days of recreative and educational activities. Last year, a group of 50 children enjoyed a similar convenience. The Summer School was focused in creative and artistic activities to encourage the self-confidence and to facilitate the social integration of those children that are affected by the sensory shortcoming. Light into Europe wants to say an honest "Thank you!" for all those who were involved in this succesful Mid-Summer Festival.
